

Subject Important Update: New U.S. Tariffs and Impact on Product Pricing

---

Dear Valued Customer,

As you may be aware, the government of the United States announced it will be imposing new tariffs to reciprocate against the higher tariff rates of its trading partners. Effective on April 5, 2025, all imports coming into the U.S. will be subject to a standard 10% tariff. The tariff will be applied over and above existing Most-Favored Nation (MFN) tariff rates and any other applicable tariffs. In addition, imports originating from China will be tarified at a higher rate, irrespective of product, effective April 9, 2025

These tariffs will have a direct impact on the production and sale of both our Azer Scientific and Electron Microscopy Sciences products at Biolyst Scientific. To ensure we approach this situation with transparency we are informing you that Biolyst Scientific will be responding to these additional tariffs by passing incremental costs associated with the tariffs to customers through a surcharge applied to your orders. This surcharge will be a separate line item on your invoice and will coincide with the reciprocal tariff of the country of origin. As tariffs change, we will continue to keep you updated and adjust surcharges as necessary.

We value your business and look forward to continuing our partnership. Should you have any questions, please contact your Azer Scientific or Electron Microscopy Sciences representative.

Thank you,

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads 'Jay Hexamer'.

Jay Hexamer
CEO
Biolyst Scientific